FRIDAY EVENING, JULY 9.

CAR MANNERS.—The English ideas are prevailing, that a man's fare entitles him to a seat, and that railroad companies, and not passengers, must furnish sittings to their customers. For this change in public sentiment, the ladies have only to thank themselves. It is the rarest thing for a New York woman to thank a gentleman for yielding his seat. It is accepted with an air of impudence that seems to marvel at the impudence of a man for sitting down at all. Two women will occupy three seats, though the man is standing who yielded his sitting to the new-comers. If a lady comes into a car with an associate, and a gentleman gets up to make room for her, she will watch her chances and snuggle in her male friend, leaving the police gentleman to hang on by the car-strap. Men tire of this; and, tired by their work and anxious to read their papers, the great majority keep their seats to the end. It is a common thing for mothers to take a four-year-old in their arms, and enter the cars, confidently expecting that no man will be brute enough to see a woman standing up with a child. The seat yielded, the child is clapped down in it, and the woman looks around for somebody to give her a seat. These little tricks are well understood, and, after standing a few blocks, the mother will sit down and take the child in her lap. Nobody yields a seat in an omnibus not at a table. Gentlemen don't give up their state rooms because ladies have to sit up; and there is growing a feeling that if passengers cannot find seats in one car they must take the next.
